1	You didn't report information about your parents because you indicated that you have an unusual circumstance. You need to follow up with your college's or career school's financial aid office before your eligibility for federal student aid can be determined. A financial aid administrator may request documentation of your unusual circumstance in order to complete their review of your FAFSA form.	The FAA must review the student's unusual circumstances and, on a case-by-case basis, determine if a dependency override is warranted. For further instructions on performing a professional judgment, see the Federal Student Aid Handbook, Application and Verification Guide.

11	You didn't sign your FAFSA form.	A signature correction must be made by the student online at Studentaid.gov by creating and using their FSA ID to sign electronically. Alternatively, the student may sign a copy of their paper FAFSA Submission Summary and resubmit it to the FAFSA processor.
12	You didn't sign your FAFSA form.	A signature correction may be made by the student online at StudentAid.gov by creating and using their FSA ID to sign electronically.
13	Your FAFSA form can't be processed because of issues related to the Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1988.	The student needs to call 202-377-4600 or send an email to applicationsystemsdivision@ed.gov to resolve this issue.
14	You indicated that your parents are unwilling to provide their information on your FAFSA form. Therefore, the only federal student aid you may be eligible to receive is a Direct Unsubsidized Loan. The financial aid office at your college or career school may contact you to complete your application. If you want to be considered for other types of federal student aid, you must log in to StudentAid.gov, select "Make Corrections," and add your parent to your application.	If the FAA determines the parent is unwilling to provide information on the student's FAFSA form or has ended financial support, then the FAA may determine the student's eligibility for Direct Unsubsidized Loan.
15	The National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS®) database indicates that you have one or more federal student loans that may have been obtained fraudulently. You are not eligible to receive any federal student aid until this issue is resolved.	Comment 050 will appear only if a guaranty agency, a Perkins school, or the Department of Education has determined that a loan was obtained fraudulently. In these rare cases, the loan is listed under the perpetrator's identifiers, and they cannot get further Title IV federal student aid. If a school receives a student record with comment code 050, the school should refer the applicant to the loan holder for resolution.
16	Your FAFSA form can't be processed because of issues related to your eligibility. To address these issues, contact us by phone at 202-377-4600 or by email at applicationsystemsdivision@ed.gov within 30 days.	The student is placed in an eligibility hold with the Department of Education. The student must contact Application Systems Division at applicationsystemsdivision@ed.gov or 202-377-4600 to determine if the hold can be removed.
